the world of business in Asia is replete with acronyms and unique terminology. This handy reference covers the Asia Pacific from Fiji to Japan and is organized country by country. It gives capsule entries on the key players and concepts in the different Asian countries and provides a one-stop reference source which should be of use to the international business community.

The Far East and Australasia 2003

bringing together scholarship on issues relating to language, culture, and identity with a special focus on Asian countries, this volume makes an important contribution in terms of analyzing and demonstrating how language is closely linked with crucial social, political, and economic forces, particularly the tensions between the demands of globalization and local identity. A particular feature is the inclusion of countries that have been underrepresented in the research literature such as Nepal, Bangladesh, Brunei Darussalam, Pakistan, Cambodia, Vietnam, and Korea. The book is organized in three sections: globalization and its impact on language policies, culture, and identity; language policy and the social reconstruction of national cultural identity; and language policy and language politics. The role of English unique in its attention to how the domination of English is being addressed in relation to cultural values and identity by non-English speaking countries in a range of countries.
sociopolitical contexts this volume will help readers to understand the impact of globalization on non English speaking countries particularly developing countries which differ significantly from contexts in the west in their cultural orientations and the way identities are being constructed. Language policy, culture and identity in Asian contexts will interest scholars and research students in the areas of language policy, education, sociolinguistics, applied linguistics and critical linguistics. It can be adopted in graduate and advanced undergraduate courses on language policy, language in society and language education.

this is a bold project recording the lives of a particular group of southeast asians most of the people whose biographies are included here have settled down in the ten countries that constitute the region each of them has either self identified as chinese or is comfortable to be known as someone of chinese ancestry there are also those who were born in china or elsewhere who came here to work and do business including seeking help from others who have ethnic chinese connections with the political and economic conditions of the region in a great state of flux for the past two centuries it is impossible to find consistency in the naming process confucius had stressed that correct names make for the best relationships in this case professor leo suryadinata has been pursuing for decades the elusive goal of finding the right name to give to the large numbers of people who have in one way or another made their homes in or made some difference to southeast asia. I believe that when he and his colleagues selected the biographies to be included here they have taken a big step towards the rectification of identities for many leading personalities in so doing he has done us all a great service.
