this expanded new edition reflects the author s efforts to explore the crucial components of the education of the creative arts therapist the text reflects significant developments in the profession of art therapy important modifications in the educational standards of the american art therapy association and profound changes in health care the book is an expression of the author s belief that the most essential element of art therapy is art as the core of the profession it is art making that undergirds the profession and is also the key element that art therapists bring to the client therapist and educator student relationships central too to the author s approach is the manner in which mentor and beginning art therapist come together in their efforts to learn and grow the concern for authentic engagement in the training relationship enhances the beginner's ability to use the self to help clients learn to use art and artistic expression to identify and integrate new insights in their lives. Topics presented include the image making art beginner's chaos journey metaphor in education, mentor, supervisor, the art experience, core curriculum, practical experience, science, and soul in the clinical setting. The work of art therapy, the young student gifts of the male and female student role of philosophy, therapy, and holidays, metaversal therapy role of metaphor, role of love role of assessment, and role of work. The book is ultimately concerned with the use of art and the artistic relationship to promote human growth. The author's deep understanding of both art and existentialism makes this book a high point in the ever-evolving fields of existential psychotherapy and art therapy.

Essentials of Art Therapy Education and Practice 2003

How do you paint a figure who is fully human and fully divine? How do you paint Christ? Strangeness and recognition takes a fresh look at well-known Renaissance paintings of Christ and shows how surprising and deeply strange they can be. This book brings an imaginative and affective theological perspective to the viewing experience as it explores the twin roles played by strangeness and recognition in responding to the challenge of creating and relating to images of Christ by confounding expectations and defamiliarising subject matter. The ambiguity and mystery of these paintings disturbs viewers, expectations, and reconnects them with the extraordinary mystery of the incarnation while neither words nor images can fully describe God through a questioning, challenging dialogue with paintings whose visual language disrupts itself. Viewers can be brought to the limits of their own understanding and can enter into transformative and personlike relationships with paintings. These personal exchanges lead through estrangement to the rediscovery of the familiar within the strange and the renewed within the familiar. And to the ultimately unspeakable, unpaintable mystery of the incarnation. Drawing on a diverse range of theologians, philosophers, art historians, and art theorists, and building on her own earlier work, Chloe Reddaway shows the theological potential of Christian images even when they are far removed from their original contexts. A major contribution to the emerging field of visual theology, this book will appeal to scholars of theology and art history alike as well as to the museum-going public.
