Museum analyst and planner John W. Jacobsen provides both the theoretical underpinnings and the operational pragmatics of measuring any museum's intentional impact and performance by using 1,025 indicators drawn from 51 expert sources. Jacobsen's book, Measuring Museum Impact and Performance: Theory and Practice, provides museum professionals internationally with a clear, very open process that will improve their museum's value and performance by selecting indicators that monitor whether they are realizing their desired public, private, personal, and institutional values. The book is not prescriptive but liberating as the framework recognizes that each museum needs to decide on its own purposes and priorities. The book is organized in two parts: part 1 theory is scholarly and builds on the museum field's rich literature and part 2 practice provides step-by-step methods for any museum to set up its own dashboard of prioritized impact and performance indicators. Substantive attachments include the list of the 51 source documents for the MiIP indicators, definitions of terms and data fields, a long list of precedented museum impacts, measurement formulas, and worksheet templates filled in for a sample museum. The MiIP 1.0 database available online gives readers a literature review of prior work on measuring museum value, an analysis of eleven well-established evaluation frameworks, a revolutionary yet practical museum theory of action, a robust and searchable menu of 1,025 existing and aspirational indicators, the MiIP 1.0 database that you can use to start your own selection, an analysis of the MiIP database using the theory of action that reveals 14 areas of potential museum impacts and benefits, a process to select and prioritize your museum's intentional purposes and desired impacts, a process to determine measure and compare your museum's key performance indicators, and tips on how to capture and report data used in your selected indicators.
