PCMag is a leading authority on technology, delivering labs-based independent reviews of the latest products and services. Our expert industry analysis and practical solutions help you make better buying decisions and get more from technology. The book uncovers and examines why the geography of innovation by multinationals is overwhelmingly local in spite of their global operations in manufacturing and sales through case studies of product development by three global players: Toyota, Sony, and Canon. The microdynamic approach of the book allows an in-depth investigation of the engineering and technical aspects of innovation. The book unfolds the complex and constant process of trial and error in innovation and reveals three fundamental natures of innovation: complexity, interdisciplinarity, and prototyping. In order to manage these three natures of innovation, firms have to plan for unplanned situations and to collocate knowledge people and resources.
