Over 5,300 total pages, marine recon reconnaissance units are the commander's eyes and ears on the battlefield. They are task organized as a highly trained six-man team capable of conducting specific missions behind enemy lines. Employed as part of the Marine Air Ground Task Force, reconnaissance teams provide timely information to the supported commander. The battlefield's varying types of missions a reconnaissance team conducts depend on how deep in the battle space they are operating. Division reconnaissance units support the close and distant battle space while force reconnaissance units conduct deep reconnaissance in support of a landing force. Common missions include but are not limited to: amphibious ground reconnaissance and surveillance to observe identify and report enemy activity, conduct specialized surveys, and other special reconnaissance missions. When properly task-organized with other forces, equipment, or personnel, they assist in specialized engineering and other special reconnaissance missions.

Infiltrate mission areas by necessary means to include surface, subsurface, and airborne operations. Conduct initial terminal guidance (ITG) for helicopters, landing craft, parachutists, air delivery, and supply designate and engage selected targets with organic weapons. Support the battle space by conducting reconnaissance. When properly task-organized with other forces, equipment, or personnel, they assist in specialized engineering and other special reconnaissance missions.

foreword this manual takes a general approach to coin the army recognizes that every insurgency is contextual and presents its own set of challenges you cannot fight the taliban the way you would fight the former soviet union the application of principles and fundamentals to deal with each vary considerably nonetheless all insurgencies even today s highly adaptable strains remain wars amongst the people employ variations of standard themes and adhere to elements of a recognizable revolutionary campaign plan this manual therefore addresses the common characteristics of insurgencies it strives to provide those carrying out a counterinsurgency campaign a solid foundation on which to build in seeking to understand and address specific insurgencies a counterinsurgency campaign is as described in this manual a mix of offensive defensive and stability operations conducted along multiple lines of operation it requires soldiers to employ a mix of both familiar combat tasks and skills more often associated with nonmilitary agencies with the balance between them varying depending on the local situation this is not easy leaders at all levels must adjust their approach constantly ensuring that their elements are ready each day to be greeted with a handshake or a hand grenade to be nation builders as well as warriors to help reestablish institutions and local security forces to assist in the rebuilding of infrastructure and basic services and to facilitate the establishment of local governance and the rule of law the list of such tasks is A long one and involves extensive coordination and cooperation with a myriad of intergovernmental indigenous and international agencies indeed the responsibilities of leaders in a counterinsurgency campaign are daunting and the discussions in this manual endeavor to alert them to the challenges of such campaigns and to suggest general approaches for grappling with those challenges conducting a successful counterinsurgency campaign thus requires a flexible adaptive force led by agile well informed culturally astute leaders it is our hope that this manual provides the necessary guidelines to succeed in such a campaign in operations that inevitably are exceedingly difficult and complex our soldiers deserve nothing less

This book is not a learned treatise its purpose is to render practical instruction to all those physicians surgeons administrators and paramedical personnel who have to act in war or disaster situations as a manual it is in no way a substitute for existing detailed and specialized texts on the various aspects of trauma surgery and management rather have we attempted to collate the most essential knowledge required to organize and afford medical aid whenever civilian or military disaster strikes the man on the spot is hardly ever a specialist hence the need for a simple general manual of instruction the organizational aspects of medical services in war are very similar to those required for coping with a disaster indeed the military are often called to cope with civilian disasters our duty is to be prepared so as not to lose life and limb for lack of foresight there are repetitions in the book for which no apologies are made since they always concern invaluable knowledge the chapters are organized to afford an understanding of the organization of medical services the cause of wounds and traumatic disease and the pathophysiological processes resulting from the different kinds of trauma the management of treating casualties is divided in each section into the three basic echelons on site at the actual place of wounding at the medical battalion aid station and in the field or base hospital
