things not seen is the autobiography of remarkable mountaineer, writer, and environmentalist W.H.
murray. After being introduced to climbing in his early twenties, Murray's relationship with the outdoors was shaped as much by his time on the mountains as away from them. His early Scottish climbs were brought to a halt by the Second World War, which saw him spend three years as a Nazi prisoner of war.
These years were devoted not only to philosophical study but also to writing his classic mountaineering in Scotland not once but twice on toilet paper. The time to write about mountains only fuelled Murray's enthusiasm to climb them. The regeneration in mountaineering that followed the war saw Murray complete three Himalayan expeditions alongside other iconic figures such as Doug Scott.
Tom Mackinnon and Tom Weir and Eric Shipton he not only explored Himalayan peaks never before attempted by westerners but also established the crucial Khumbu Icefall route up Everest which paved the way for the mountain’s first ascent in 1953. Later life saw Murray return to Scotland and begin the fight to conserve the wild places that motivated him from pioneering the John Muir Trust to fighting threats to forestry. Murray’s writing is laced with a philosophical edge and a contagious appreciation for Scotland’s wild places capturing the essence of why Murray’s work has been inspiring readers for decades. Written just before his death in 1996 and with a foreword by renowned Scottish mountaineer Hamish MacInnes the Evidence of Things Not Seen is a must-read for anyone for which the mountains are still a source of wonder. A Journal from Japan is an intimate and honest account of life in Japan written by the pioneering female scientist Marie Carmichael Stopes originally intended only for friends and acquaintances the journal provides a unique perspective on a rapidly changing country through the eyes of a westerner with a deep interest in the East from her encounters with the Japanese people and their traditions to her scientific work and personal experiences. picture of Japan as seen by a curious and open-minded outsider. Volume fourteen of the works of Victor Hugo features "Things Seen and Essays" based on decades of extensive archival research. "Seen but Not Seen" uncovers a great swath of previously unknown information about settler indigenous relations in Canada. Exhibitions have long played a crucial role in defining disciplinary histories. This fascinating volume examines the impact of eleven groundbreaking architecture and design exhibitions held between 1956 and 2006, revealing how they have shaped contemporary understanding and practice of these fields. Featuring written and photographic descriptions of the shows and illuminating essays from noted curators, scholars, critics, designers, and theorists, "As Seen" explores the multifaceted ways in which exhibitions have reflected on contemporary dilemmas and opened up new processes and ways of working. Providing a fresh perspective on some of the most important exhibitions of the 20th century from America, Europe, and Japan, including "This Is Tomorrow: Expo '70" and "Massive Change," this book offers a new framework for thinking about how exhibitions can function as a transformative force in the field of architecture and design. Christian and not as such Merleau-Ponty's philosophy suggests a new kind of natural theology one that grounds an account of God as ipsum esse subsistens in the questions produced by a phenomenological account of the world. This philosophical ontology also offers to Christian theology a route away from dualistic compromises and back to its own deepest insight. Pete Dunne has been watching birds since he was seven years old but not just watching deeply absorbing every nuance of color markings, shape, flight, and song. All the subtle clues that can identify a bird barely glimpsed among the highest branches in fading twilight. With the same skill he has been observing and writing about birding and birders for over twenty years using humor, sentiment, occasional sarcasm and unashamed passion for his chosen profession to explore why birdwatching is so irresistibly compelling to so many people. This book brings together thirty-two vintage essays that Dunne originally wrote for publications such as American Birds, Bird Watcher's Digest, Birder's World, Birding, Living Bird, The New Jersey Edition of The Sunday New York Times, Wildbird, and Wild Bird News. Encounters with birds rare and common is their shared theme through which Dunne weaves stories of his family and friends.
Reflections on the cycles of nature and portraits of unforgettable birders whose paths have crossed his life, ranging from Roger Tory Peterson to a life-battered friend who finds solace in birding. A cliff-hanger story of the bird that got away gives this book its title. Klaus Kertess has long been one of the most consistently original, innovative, and insightful voices in the art world. After launching in 1966 and directing for ten years the influential Bykert Gallery, and with it the careers of several of today's most important artists, Kertess turned full time to writing about and curating contemporary art. Seen Written brings together for the first time a wide selection of his essays from the last three decades. These texts expertly chart the course of American art from the 1960s through the present, exploring the foundation of art as well as the global context of art making in the twenty-first century. With lucid, beautifully written prose that deeply conveys both the look and the experience of art, Kertess's essays offer new understandings of well-known artists and point to those working today who are making groundbreaking and lasting contributions to contemporary art practice. Artists discussed in depth in the book include John Marin, Willem de Kooning, Joan Mitchell, Malcolm Morley, Brice Marden, Alfonso Ossorio, Barry Le Va...
