The first book to introduce the new statistics: effect sizes, confidence intervals, and meta-analysis, in an accessible way. It is chock full of practical examples and tips on how to analyze and report research results using these techniques.

This book is invaluable for readers interested in meeting the new APA publication manual guidelines by adopting the new statistics, which are more informative than null hypothesis significance testing and becoming widely used in many disciplines. Accompanying the book is the exploratory software ECSI package free software that runs under Excel and is accessible at the newest website.

The book's exercises use ECSI simulations, which are highly visual and interactive to engage users and encourage exploration. The simulations strengthen understanding of key statistical ideas. There are many examples and detailed guidance to show readers how to analyze their own data using the new statistics and practical strategies for interpreting the results. A particular strength of the book is its explanation of meta-analysis using simple diagrams and examples.
Transferable writing skills that can be applied across the field of policing both academically and professionally. Authors Steven Hougland and Jennifer M. Allen interweave professional and applied writing with academic writing and information literacy. The result is a stronger, more confident report writer. Students are also exposed to best practices for various elements of report writing, such as incident reports, supplemental reports, investigative reports, traffic reports, and search warrants and affidavits. Tanzania’s bank-dominated financial sector is small, concentrated, and at a relatively nascent stage of development. Financial services provision is dominated by commercial banks, with the ten largest institutions being preeminent in terms of mobilizing savings and intermediating credit. Medium to small banks rely systematically more on costlier short term interbank financing and institutional deposits and have markedly higher operating costs. These structural features underpin financial stability challenges which are significant. Bank asset quality has deteriorated sharply in recent years and under-provisioning is significant. Belying the apparently comfortable capital cushions, credit growth has fallen precipitously. Corporate debt loads have risen and their cash flows are weak. Dollarization of bank balance sheets raises the possibility of solvency stress under shocks. Exacerbated by funding liquidity pressures, especially at smaller banks, an updated and revised edition of the most popular general knowledge manual, the Phoebe A. Hearst Expedition to Naga Ed Deir Cemeteries N 2000 and N 2500 presents the results of excavations directed by George A. Reisner and led by Arthur C. Mace. The site of Naga Ed Deir, Egypt, is unusual for its continued use over a long period of time, c. 3500 BCE to 650 CE. Burials in N 2000 and N 2500 date to the first intermediate period, Middle Kingdom, and the Coptic era. In keeping with Reisner’s earlier publications of Naga Ed Deir, this volume presents artifacts in chapter length studies devoted to a particular object type and includes a burial by burial description. The excavators’ original drawings, notes, and photographs are complemented by a contemporary analysis of the objects by experts in their subfields.

biomass obtained from agricultural residues or forest can be used to produce different materials and bioenergy required in a modern society as compared to other resources available biomass is one of the most common and widespread resources in the world thus biomass has the potential to provide a renewable energy source both locally and across large areas of the world it is estimated that the total investment in the biomass sector between 2008 and 2021 will reach the large sum of 104 billion presently bioenergy is the most important renewable energy option and will remain so the near and medium term future previously several countries try to explore the utilization of biomass in bioenergy and composite sector biomass has the potential to become the world s largest and most sustainable energy source and will be very much in demand bioenergy is based on resources that can be utilized on a sustainable basis all around the world and can thus serve as an effective option for the provision of energy services in addition the benefits accrued go beyond energy provision creating unique opportunities for regional development the present book will provide an up to date account of non wood forest residues agricultural biomass natural fibers and energy crops together with processing properties and its applications to ensure biomass utilization and reuse all aspects of biomass and bioenergy and their properties and applications will be critically re examined the book consists of three sections presenting non wood and forest products from forestry arboriculture activities or from wood processing
