for Wallace, an interview provided a formal enclosure in which the writer could safely draw on his enormous native store of kindness and wisdom and expertise. Wallace's interviews create a wormhole in which an author's private theorizing about art spills into the public record. Wallace's best interviews are vital extra literary documents in which we catch him thinking aloud about his signature concerns: irony's magnetic hold on contemporary language, the pale last days of postmodernism, the delicate exchange that exists between reader and writer, and at the same time his acute focus moves across MFA programs, his negotiations with religious belief, the role of footnotes in his writing, and his multifaceted conception of his work’s architecture. Conversations with David Foster Wallace include a previously unpublished interview from 2005 and a version of Larry McCaffery’s influential review of contemporary fiction. Interview with Wallace that has been expanded with new material drawn from the original raw transcript. William Burroughs’ work was dedicated to an assault upon language, traditional values, and all agents of control. Produced at a time when he was at his most extreme and messianic, the job lays out his abrasive, incisive, paranoiac maddened and maddening worldview in interviews interspersed with stories and other writing on the Beat movement. The importance of the cut up technique, the press, scientology, capital punishment, drugs, good and evil, the destruction of nations, deadly orgone radiation, and whether violence just in words is violence enough. Burroughs’ insights show why he was one of the most influential writers and one of the sharpest, most startling, and strangest minds of his generation. Job hunting or know someone who is? Northrop Frye, a scholar known chiefly for his books and articles, was also a gifted speaker who was never reluctant to be interviewed. This collection of 111 interviews and discussions with the critic assembles all of those published or broadcast on radio or television. Also included among the interviews are a number of conversations not generally known, many of them transcribed from tapes gathered from personal collections. Interviews with Northrop Frye aims to provide another view of the famous literary critic. One that supplements that which is often obtained from reading his printed works ranging from the earliest interviews in 1948 to discussions that took place mere months before his death in 1991. This volume is a complete portrait of Frye, the conversationalist, demonstrating that he was capable of expressing his thought just as lucidly in person as he could on paper. Among the topics included are Frye’s views on teaching writing and Canadian literature, his opinions on the state of criticism, and a fascinating exchange concerning contemporary...

Portrays a deeply troubled family struggling to survive amidst terrifying abuse. A page turner as engrossing as any of Conroy's novels. Robert H. Brinkmeyer Jr., University of South Carolina, a New York Times bestselling author of eleven novels and memoirs. Pat Conroy is one of America's most beloved storytellers and a writer as synonymous with the South Carolina Lowcountry as Pluff Mud or the Palmetto Tree. As Conroy's writings have been rooted in autobiography more often than not, his readers have come to know and appreciate much about the once secret dark familial history that has shaped Conroy's life and work. Conversations with the Conroys opens further the discussion of the Conroy family through five revealing interviews conducted in 2014 with Pat Conroy and four of his six siblings: brothers Mike, Jim, and Tim, and sister Kathy in confessional and often comic dialogs, the Conroys openly discuss the perils of being raised by their larger than life parents, USMC fighter pilot Colonel Conroy, the Great Santini, and Southern Belle Peggy Conroy. Née Peck, the complexities of having their history of abuse made public by Pat's books, the tragic death of their youngest brother Tom, the chasm between them and their sister Carol Ann, and the healing, redemptive embrace they have come to find over time. In one another with good humor and often striking candor, these interviews capture the Conroys as authentic and indeed proud South Carolinians not always at ease with their place in literary lore but nonetheless deeply supportive of Pat in his life and writing. A small gem of a book for fans of Conroy's books, this is a must-read. Publishers weekly collected interviews with the man who has been called the greatest living American film director interviews with the film.

A diverse collection of essays and companion interviews that offer insight into the inspiration, drafting, and revision process, with a title that suggests both the genre and the process of composing it. Creating nonfiction is a collection of essays and interviews that aims to open readers and writers' eyes to the formal possibilities of creative nonfiction included are memoirs, personal essays, literary journalism, graphic essays, and lyric essays. The content is equally diverse, with topics ranging from childbirth to child labor from dandelions to domestic violence. Whereas most anthologies leave readers to speculate about the evolution of each contribution, Creating Nonfiction provides companion interviews that offer insight into the inspiration, drafting, and revision process that produced the essays. Cheryl Strayed talks about how working as a reporter for her hometown newspaper influenced her later writings. Dinty W. Moore reflects on the delicate balance between observation and judgment when writing about subjects whose values differ from your own. Kristen Radtke explains how she decides between textual and visual images when creating a graphic essay although they offer an eclectic mix of voices and styles, what these essays all have in common is that ultimately as contributor Faith Adiele observes truth becomes art. The selections in Creating Nonfiction are fresh, diverse, and inspiring. Lisa Knopp, author of What the River Carries, encounters with the Mississippi, Missouri, and Platte. An excellent collection of essays by some of our best contemporary essayists. Ned Stuckey French coauthor of Writing Fiction: A Guide to Narrative Craft Ninth Edition. Annotation: This sequel to A Critical Cinema offers a new collection of interviews with independent filmmakers that is a feast for film fans and film historians. Scott MacDonald reveals the sophisticated thinking of these artists regarding film politics and contemporary gender issues. The interviews explore the careers of Robert Breer, Trinh T. Minh-Ha, James Benning, Su Friedrich, and Godfrey Reggio. Yoko Ono discusses her cinematic collaboration with John Lennon. Michael Snow talks about his music and films. Anne Robertson describes her cinematic diaries. Jonas Mekas and Bruce Baillie recall the New York and California avant-garde film culture. The selection has a particularly strong group of women filmmakers, including Yvonne Rainer, Laura Mulvey, and Lizzie Borden. Other notable artists are Anthony Mccall, Andrew Noren, Ross McElwee, Anne Severson, and Peter Watkins. Founded in 1973, the Journal Literature Film Quarterly has featured interviews with some of the most prominent and influential filmmakers from around the world in conversations with directors. The journal's coeditors have assembled an exciting collection. of interviews spanning 35 years interviewees include directors like Robert Wise, Billy Wilder, Frank Capra, Federico Fellini, William Friedkin, and Robert Altman. Each interview is preceded by a short introduction that establishes a contemporary context along with providing the reader with a clear sense of the interview's primary concerns. Usefully illuminating the many fascinating and sometimes surprising points of connection and difference between the directors, this volume gathers together 14 interviews with M.A.K. Halliday, the founder of Systemic Functional Linguistics (SFL), recorded over four decades. The most recent of which was conducted in 2011 and published here for the first time. In these engaging conversations with colleagues, Halliday explores his own development as a student of language in Britain and China, the evolution of SFL theory around the world, its place in the field of general linguistics, and its many sites of application. The dialogic mode enacted here allows Halliday to touch on many points of personal history and intellectual challenge that have not been addressed in formal publications in his books or collected papers, including answers to the many thought-provoking questions his colleagues had waited sometimes years to ask. Accordingly, each chapter offers a fresh illuminating window on the innovative thinking and assured convictions of this towering figure in linguistics. These interviews cover the career to date of Neil Jordan, B. 1950, easily the most renowned filmmaker working in contemporary Irish cinema. Jordan began as a fiction writer, winning the distinguished Guardian Fiction Prize for his very first book of short stories, Night in Tunisia, in 1976. His film debut was made during the peak of the troubles in Ireland and he addresses the sectarian violence head on in his first outing, Angel, 1982. This film also marked Jordan's long time association with the actor Stephen Rea, who has appeared in nine of the director's films and is often seen as Jordan's doppelgänger. Angel was awarded the London Evening Standard Most Promising Newcomer Award, the first of many accolades these include the London Critics Circle Award for Best Film and Best Director for The Company of Wolves, 1984. Best Film at the BAFTAs as well as an Academy Award for Best Screenwriter for The Crying Game, 1992. Best Film at the Venice Film Festival for Michael Collins, 1996. Best Director at the Berlin Film Festival for The Butler Boy, 1997, and a BAFTA for Best Screenplay for the End of the Affair, 1999. The director continued to publish works of fiction as well as writing the scripts for most of his feature films and in 2011 he produced a highly regarded novel, Mistaken, set in Jordan's home turf of Dublin and featuring characters who are duplicates of one another as well as mysterious arrivals and departures at the home of the Irish author of Dracula, Bram Stoker. The filmmaker has most recently produced, written, and directed the television series The Borgias, starring Jeremy Irons, and completed his fourteenth feature film, Byzantium, the story of a mother and daughter vampire duo recalling his earlier work on the Anne Rice novel, Interview with the Vampire, 1994. The last major interview with John Lennon and Yoko Ono conducted by New York Times bestselling author David Sheff featuring a new introduction that reflects on the fortieth anniversary of Lennon's death, originally published in Playboy in 1981 just after John Lennon's assassination. All we are saying is a rich, vivid complete interview with Lennon and Yoko Ono covering art creativity, the music business, childhood beginnings, privacy, how the Beatles broke up, how Lennon and McCartney collaborated or didn't on songs, parenthood, money, feminism, religion, and insecurity. Of course, at the heart of the conversation is the deep romantic and spiritual bond between Lennon and Ono. Sheff's insightful questions set the tone for Lennon's responses and his presence sets the scene as he goes through the kitchen door of Lennon and Yoko's apartment in the Dakota and observes moments at Lennon's famous white piano and the rock star's work at the stove making them grilled cheese sandwiches. Sheff's new introduction looks at his forty-year-old interview afresh and examines how what he learned from Lennon has resonated with him as a man and a parent. This is a knockout interview unguarded, wide ranging, alternately frisky and intense interviewing for journalists details...

Conversations with the Conroys 2015-10-20

Portrays a deeply troubled family struggling to survive amidst terrifying abuse a page turner as engrossing as any of Conroy's novels. Robert H. Brinkmeyer Jr. University of South Carolina, a New York Times bestselling author of eleven novels and memoirs. Pat Conroy is one of America's most beloved storytellers and a writer as synonymous with the South Carolina lowcountry as pluff mud or the palmetto tree as Conroy's writings have been rooted in autobiography more often than not his readers have come to know and appreciate much about the once secret dark familial history that has shaped Conroy's life and work. Conversations with the Conroys opens further the discussion of the Conroy family through five revealing interviews conducted in 2014 with Pat Conroy and four of his six siblings, brothers Mike, Jim, and Tim and sister Kathy in confessional and often comic dialogs. The Conroys openly discuss the perils of being raised by their larger than life parents, USMC fighter pilot Col. Don Conroy, the great Santini and Southern Belle Peggy Conroy. Née Peck, the complexities of having their history of abuse made public by Pat's books. The tragic death of their youngest brother Tom, the chasm between them and their sister Carol Ann and the healing redemptive embrace they have come to find over time in one another with good humor and often striking candor. These interviews capture the Conroys as authentic and indeed proud South Carolinians not always at ease with their place in literary lore but nonetheless deeply supportive of Pat in his life and writing. A small gem of a book for fans of Conroy's books this is a must read. Publishers Weekly.
