excerpt from the beacon second reader in the beacon second reader the author has chosen for his stories only those of recognized literary merit and while it has been necessary to rearrange and sometimes rewrite them for the purpose of simplification yet he has endeavored to retain the spirit which has served to endear these ancient tales to the children of all ages the fairy story appeals particularly to children who are in the second school year it has been proved by our ablest psychologists that at about this period of development children are especially susceptible to the stimulus of the old folklore they are in fact passing through the stage which corresponds to the dawn of the human race when demons dragons fairies and hobgoblins were as firmly believed in as rivers and mountains as a test of this theory the author asked hundreds of second grade and third grade school children to recall the stories which they had read during the preceding year and to express their preferences the choice of more than ninety percent proved to be either folklore stories pure and simple or such tales as contained the folklore element about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

The Character Building Readers. Second Reader - Part Two 2017-09-13

excerpt from the children s second reader if heaven lies about us in our infancy the realm of poetry cannot be far distant it is a significant as well as a beautiful fact that our poets have been so noble and true that we are glad to have the children learn of them they have manifested too such a love of innocence and childhood in their home lives that the little ones who never have had the privilege of looking into their faces may yet understand this beautiful relationship and so being drawn closer to their lives appreciate and love their poems in introducing the poets longfellow and whittier into the following pages the author has not undertaken any comprehensive account of their lives but the purpose has been to picture them to the children in such a way as to make them real personages and also to lead up to such of their poems as appeal to the little ones about the publisher forgotten
