2015 Israel Fishman Non Fiction Award presented by the Stonewall Books Awards of the American Library Association. Muhsin is one of the organizers of Al Fitra Foundation, a South African support group for lesbian, transgender, and gay Muslims. Islam and homosexuality are seen by many as deeply incompatible. This according to Muhsin is why he had to act. I realized that I'm not alone; these people are going through the very same things that I'm going through. But I've managed because of my in-depth relationship with God to reconcile the two. I was completely comfortable saying to the world that I'm gay and I'm Muslim. I wanted to help other people to get there so that's how I became an activist living out Islam. Documents the rarely heard voices of Muslims who live in secular democratic countries and who are gay, lesbian, and transgender. It weaves original interviews with Muslim activists into a compelling composite picture which showcases the importance of the solidarity of support groups in the effort to change social relationships and achieve justice. This nascent movement is not about being out as opposed to being in the closet rather as the voices of these activists demonstrate it is about finding ways to live out islam with dignity and integrity reconciling their sexuality and gender with their faith and reclaiming islam as their own forged in the age of empire the relationship between islam and liberalism has taken on a sense of urgency today when global conflicts are seen as pitting one against the other more than describing a civilizational fault line between the muslim world and the west however this relationship also offers the potential for consensus and the possibility of moral and political engagement or compatibility the existence or extent of this correspondence tends to preoccupy academic as much as popular accounts of such a relationship this volume looks however to the way in which muslim politics and society are defined beyond and indeed after it reappraising the first wave of islamic liberalism during the nineteenth century the book describes the long and intertwined histories of these categories across a large geographical expanse by drawing upon the contributions of scholars from a variety of disciplines including philosophy theology sociology politics and history it explores how liberalism has been criticised and refashioned by muslim thinkers and movements to assume a reality beyond the abstractions that define its compatibility with islam stoning slavery honour killings homosexuality in the context of islam these topics are frequently discussed but little understood when debated such emotive issues often spark heated argument rather than reasoned deliberation in this lucid and carefully constructed collection of essays feminist academic Dr Kecia Ali examines classical Muslim texts and tries to evaluate whether a just system of sexual ethics is possible within an Islamic framework seeking to avoid polemical argument. Ali inspects key themes such as consent and control which are crucial to any understanding of either traditional Islamic sexual ethics or the possibilities for progressive transformation in these ideals suitable for undergraduates and the interested reader alike. Sexual ethics and Islam is an essential tool for understanding modern Islam in today's increasingly sexualised world.

homosexuality is anathema to islam or so the majority of both believers and non believers suppose throughout the muslim world it is met with hostility where state punishments range from hefty fines to the death penalty likewise numerous scholars and commentators maintain that the qur an and hadith rule unambiguously against same sex relations this pioneering study argues that there is far more nuance to the matter than most believe in its narrative of lot the qur an could be interpreted as condemning lust rather homosexuality while some hadith are fiercely critical of homosexuality some are far more equivocal this is the first book length treatment to offer a detailed analysis of how islamic scripture jurisprudence and hadith can not only accommodate a sexually sensitive islam but actively endorse it this book basis for jurisprudence and islamic rulings is the twenty first volume of a series of authoritative islamic books entitled islam questions and answers this volume deals with accountability sources for Islamic rulings and Shari'ah innovations in religion and worship. The overall series discuss issues relevant to Islam and present accurate and reliable information based on the true beliefs and practices of the Prophet peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him and his companions. The objectives of the various books include 1) to teach and familiarize Muslims with various aspects of their religion, 2) to be a source for guiding people to Islam, and 3) to assist in solving the social and personal problems of the Muslims in an Islamic context. The books are directed towards Muslims and non-Muslims alike. Subject areas include but are not limited to Islamic Fiqh and Jurisprudence, Islamic History, Islamic Social Laws including marriage, divorce, contracts, and inheritance, Islamic Finance, Basic tenets and Aqeedah of the Islamic faith, and Tawheed. The books are compilations of questions and responses about Islam from both Muslims and non-Muslims. The responses are handled mainly by internationally renowned Islamic Shaykhs and scholars, including Shaykh Al Islam Ibn Taymiyah, Ibn Katheer Al Albaani, Shaykh Ibn Baaz, Ibn Al Jawzi, Ibn Al Qayyim Al Izz, Ibn Abd Al Salaam Al Nawawi, Shaykh Abd Al Kareem Al Khudayr, Al Dhahabi, Al Qurtubi, Al Sindi, Al Shawkaani, and Al Bastawi, using only authentic scholarly sources based on the Qur'an and Sunnah. References are provided where appropriate in the responses. The book provides the reader with cross references of other pertinent responses not necessarily in the same volume but also in other volumes of the series. However, each volume is complete in itself. The book records accurately the answers the contributing sheikhs and scholars gave to the questions put to them. an in-depth look at how Muslim American organizations address domestic violence within their communities in peaceful families. Juliane Hammer chronicles and examines the efforts, stories, arguments, and strategies of individuals and organizations doing Muslim anti-domestic violence work in the United States. Looking at connections among ethical practices, gender norms, and religious interpretation, Hammer demonstrates how Muslim advocates mobilize a rich religious tradition in community efforts against domestic violence and identify religion and culture as resources or roadblocks to prevent harm and to restore family peace. Drawing on her interviews with Muslim advocates, service providers, and religious leaders, Hammer paints a vivid picture of the challenges such advocacy work encounters. The insecurities of American Muslim communities facing intolerance and Islamophobia lead to additional challenges in acknowledging and confronting problems of spousal abuse. Hammer reveals how Muslim anti-domestic violence workers combine the methods of the mainstream secular anti-domestic violence movement with Muslim perspectives and interpretations identifying a range of Muslim anti domestic violence approaches hammer argues that at certain times and in certain situations it may be imperative to combat domestic abuse by endorsing notions of protective patriarchy even though service providers may hold feminist views critical of patriarchal assumptions hammer links Muslim advocacy efforts to the larger domestic violence crisis in the United States and shows how through extensive family and community networks advocates participate in and further debates about family gender and marriage in global Muslim communities highlighting the place of Islam as an American religion peaceful families delves into the efforts made by Muslim Americans against domestic violence and the ways this refashions the society at large the five daily prayers sal?t that constitute the second pillar of islam deeply pervade the everyday life of observant muslims until now however no general study has analyzed the rules governing salát the historical dimensions of its practice and the rich variety of ways that it has been interpreted within the Islamic tradition. Marion Holmes Katz's richly textured book offers a broad historical survey of the rules, values, and interpretations relating to salát. This innovative study examines the different ways in which prayer has been understood in Islamic law, Sufi mysticism, and Islamic philosophy. Katz's book also goes beyond the spiritual realm to analyze the political dimensions of prayer, including scholars' concerns about the righteousness and piety of rulers. The last chapter raises significant issues around gender roles, including the question of women's participation in and leading public worship. This book will resonate with students of Islamic history and comparative religion.

starting with 19th century narratives of african american travelers to the holy land the following chapters probe islam’s role in urban social movements music and popular culture relations between african americans and muslim immigrants and the racial politics of american islam with the ongoing war in iraq this book addresses the increasing role of queer politics within forms of islamophobia both by exploring the framing of lesbian gay bisexual and transgender LGBT issues as a key marker of western superiority and by identifying the ways in which Muslim homophobia contributes to this dialectic.

muslim women in contemporary north america is a provocative study of how strongly held and divergent opinions, values and beliefs as well as misconceptions, overgeneralizations and political agendas pertaining to Muslim women in the region enter the public frame of reference. Interrogating contested topics in a series of case studies from both Canada and the United States, this book probes below the surface in pursuit of deeper understanding and more productive dialogue. Chapters analyze controversies over clash literature, dissident reformists, female religious leadership, veils, and the nature of emancipation in a compelling examination of the ways in which Muslim American and Canadian identities and values are being defined, differentiated and projected by pinpointing both sources of dissonance and unexpected patterns of resonance among complex, composite, and at times overlapping identity constellations. This book uncovers the impact of controversies on broader cultural negotiations in the United States and Canada.

interviews with young muslims in chicago explore the complexity of identities formed at the crossroads of islam and hip hop this groundbreaking study of race religion and popular culture in the 21st century United States focuses on a new concept Muslim cool. Muslim cool is a way of being an American Muslim displayed in ideas, dress, social activism in the hood and in complex relationships to state power constructed through hip hop and the performance of blackness. Muslim cool is a way of engaging with the black American experience by both black and non-black young Muslims that challenges racist norms in the U.S. as well as dominant ethnic and religious structures within American Muslim communities. Drawing on over two years of ethnographic research, Su Ad Abdul Khabeer illuminates the ways in which young and multiethnic U.S. Muslims draw on blackness to construct their identities as Muslims. This is a form of critical Muslim self-making that builds on interconnections and intersections rather than divisions between black and Muslim. Thus by countering the notion that blackness and the Muslim experience are fundamentally different, Muslim cool poses a critical challenge to dominant ideas that Muslims are foreign to the United States and puts blackness at the center of the study of American Islam. Yet Muslim cool also demonstrates that connections to blackness made through hip hop are critical and contested because they push back against the pervasive phenomenon of anti-blackness and contested because questions of race, class, gender, and nationality continue to complicate self-making in the United States.
