group of scholars offering diverse perspectives contributors to this volume represent a wide range of disciplines including the humanities media and communication anthropology sociology psychology women s studies education social work nursing and health and medicine offers comprehensive coverage of the genres employed by qualitative researchers scholars use multiple ways to advance knowledge including literary forms performance visual art various types of media narrative folk art and more articulates challenges inherent in alternative methodologies this volume discusses the issues and challenges faced when employing art in research including ethical issues academic merit issues and even funding issues intended audience this is an essential resource for any scholar interested in qualitative research as well as a critical resource for all academic and public libraries uncovers what the sociology of religion would look like had it emerged in a confucian muslim or native american culture rather than in a christian one sociology has long used western christianity as a model for all religious life as a result the field has tended to highlight aspects of religion that christians find important such as religious beliefs and formal organizations while paying less attention to other elements rather than simply criticizing such limitations james v spickard imagines what the sociology of religion would look like had it arisen in three non western societies what aspects of religion would scholars see more clearly if they had been raised in confucian china what could they learn about religion from ibn khaldun the famed 14th century arab scholar what would they better understand had they been born navajo whose traditional religion certainly does not revolve around beliefs and organizations through these thought experiments spickard shows how non western ideas understand some aspects of religions even of western religions better than does standard sociology the volume shows how non western frameworks can shed new light on several different dimensions of religious life including the question of who maintains religious communities the relationships between religion and ethnicity as sources of social ties and the role of embodied experience in religious rituals these approaches reveal central aspects of contemporary religions that the dominant way of doing sociology fails to notice each approach also provides investigators with new theoretical resources to guide them deeper into their subjects the volume makes a compelling case for adopting a global perspective in the social sciences who hasn t asked what happens to me after i die and or are we alone in the universe other worlds ufos aliens and the afterlife takes readers on a journey into other galaxies and into a different time a time after all of their tomorrows how are the societies organized on other planets and in the afterlife this book answers this question with a new approach in the ufo and the near death experience fields as readers take this trip they will wonder if there are universal laws governing the societies of intelligent beings regardless of where they reside in existence are humans projecting into foreign forms their own beliefs about how societies should be arranged on earth why study such ethereal and controversial material we always learn about ourselves when we study those who are different from us whether those beings are real or not anyone who has read a good book of fiction knows the validity of this point consider how many teenagers identify with the characters in the hunger games books what follows is the sociological perspective we will explore institutions such as marriage and the family social classes and culture we will determine the sex of alien travelers as as well as the occupations of their human witnesses we will learn what the afterlife looks like and discover what messages deceased beings deliver to humans knowles and cole bring together the top scholars in qualitative methods to provide a comprehensive overview of where arts based research has come and where it is going it addresses the significant issues conceiving and conducting arts based or arts informed research in the social sciences and humanities the idea for this book was born from discussions at several recent academic events including the women leading education wle international conference in volos greece 2012 and the university council for educational administration ucea conference in pittsburgh pennsylvania 2011 as well as from informal dialogue amongst ourselves and various colleagues both new and veteran to the field of educational leadership and in particular dedicated to the study of women in leadership at both the wle conference and the ucea conference we heard frustration from veteran women in the field that the study of women in leadership is stagnant and has not moved forward in several years with scholars new to the field continuing to write and publish work about barriers to aspiring and practicing women leaders the same types of reports that began the formal inquiry into women s lives as leaders back in the 1980s without being able to push forward with new information or ideas for change in essence the concerns and questions that were posed from some veteran women were why are we continuing to report the same things that we reported 30 years ago why are we still talking about barriers to women in leadership and why haven t we moved past gender binaries in regard to leadership ideas and practice considering these questions some women new to the field countered with their own set of responses and questions that included is it not significant to report that some women are still experiencing the same types of barriers in leadership that were highlighted 30 years ago is it

This book develops a contemporary theory of nationalism that addresses 21st century political challenges. Exploring theoretical and empirical understandings of the concepts of the nation and nationalism and the failure of various theoretical accounts to decipher the diverse manner by which nationalism comes to be embedded in our social and political world, accounting for the dynamism and intertextuality of nationalism. Nationalism and hegemony shows how the nation and nationalism come to be consolidated as conceptual and experiential power structures and how the interests of political groups are advanced through diverse nationalist modalities, which can at any time be activated for political purposes. A critique of the various and diverse manifestations of nationalism, this contribution to both theory and political practice will appeal to scholars working in the fields of sociology and social and political theory.

This self-contained book written by active researchers presents up-to-date information on smart maintenance strategies for human-robot interaction (HRI) and the associated applications of novel search algorithms in a single volume, eliminating the need to consult scattered resources. Unlike other books, it addresses maintaining a smart HRI from three dimensions: hardware, cyberware, and hybrid asset management, covering problems encountered in each through a wide variety of representative examples and elaborated illustrations. Further, the diverse mathematical models and intelligent systems constructions make the book highly practical, enabling readers interested in maintenance robotics and intelligent systems but perplexed by myriads of interrelated issues to grasp basic methodologies. At the same time, the referenced literature can be used as a roadmap for conducting deeper researches.

uncovers what the sociology of religion would look like had it emerged in a confucian muslim or native american culture rather than in a christian one sociology has long used western christianity as a model for all religious life as a result the field has tended to highlight aspects of religion that christians find important such as religious beliefs and formal organizations while paying less attention to other elements rather than simply criticizing such limitations james v spickard imagines what the sociology of religion would look like had it arisen in three non western societies what aspects of religion would scholars see more clearly if they had been raised in confucian china what could they learn about religion from ibn khaldun the famed 14th century arab scholar what would they better understand had they been born navajo whose traditional religion certainly does not revolve around beliefs and organizations through these thought experiments spickard shows how non western ideas understand some aspects of religions even of western religions better than does standard sociology the volume shows how non western frameworks can shed new light on several different dimensions of religious life including the question of who maintains religious communities the relationships between religion and ethnicity as sources of social ties and the role of embodied experience in religious rituals these approaches reveal central aspects of contemporary religions that the dominant way of doing sociology fails to notice each approach also provides investigators with new theoretical resources to guide them deeper into their subjects the volume makes a compelling case for adopting a global perspective in the social sciences the idea for this book was born from discussions at several recent academic events including the women leading education WLE international conference in Volos Greece 2012 and the university council for educational administration UCEA conference in Pittsburgh Pennsylvania 2011 as well as from informal dialogue amongst ourselves and various colleagues both new and veteran to the field of educational leadership and in particular dedicated to the study of women in leadership at both the wle conference and the ucea conference we heard frustration from veteran women in the field that the study of women in leadership is stagnant and has not moved forward in several years with scholars new to the field continuing to write and publish work about barriers to aspiring and practicing women leaders the same types of reports that began the formal inquiry into women s lives as leaders back in the 1980s without being able to push forward with new information or ideas for change in essence the concerns and questions that were posed from some veteran women were why are we continuing to report the same things that we reported 30 years ago why are we still talking about barriers to women in leadership and why haven t we moved past gender binaries in regard to leadership ideas and practice considering these questions some women new to the field countered with their own set of responses and questions that included is it not significant to report that some women are still experiencing the same types of barriers in leadership that were highlighted 30 years ago is it

discussions that have ensued between veteran women and those new to the field inspired us to develop a book that situates women in leadership exactly where we are today and reports the status of girls who are positioned to continue the good fight that began many years ago and that both highlights the changes that have occurred and reports any stagnancy that continues to threaten women s positionality in educational leadership literature practice and policy it forefronts the voices of women educational scholars who have and are interrupting disrupting and revolutionizing educational policy and practice our book reports women s leadership activities and knowledge in both the k 12 and university settings and concludes with chapters ripe with ideas for pushing for change through policy advocacy and activism the final chapter presents themes that emerged from the individual chapters and sets forth an agenda to move forward with the study of women in leadership this book is about the intrusive fear that we may not be what we appear to be or worse that we may be only what we appear to be and nothing more it is concerned with the worry of being exposed as frauds in our profession cads in our love lives as less than virtuously motivated actors when we are being agreeable charitable or decent why do we so often mistrust the motives of our own deeds thinking them fake though the beneficiary of them gives us full credit much of this book deals with that self tormenting self consciousness it is about roles and identity discussing our engagement in the roles we play our doubts about our identities amidst this flux of roles and thus about anxieties of authenticity

Now in its fourteenth edition the most popular anthology in sociology includes new articles on our changing world while also retaining its classic must read essays focusing on social interaction in everyday life. The forty six selections bring students face to face with the twin projects of contemporary sociology: understanding the individual’s experience of society and analyzing social structure. The fourteenth edition’s exceptional new readings include selections on the role of sympathy in everyday life, mistaken perceptions of the American family, the effects of a criminal record on getting a job and the major social trends affecting our future together with these essential new articles the selections by Peter Berger, Herbert Gans, Erving Goffman, Donna Eder, Zella Luria, C. Wright Mills, Deborah Tannen, Barrie Thorne, Sidney Katz, Philip Zimbardo and many others provide firsthand reporting that gives students a sense of being there. Henslin also explains basic methods of social research providing insight into how sociologists explore the social world. The selections in Down to Earth Sociology highlight the most significant themes of contemporary sociology ranging from the sociology of gender, power, politics, and religion to the contemporary crises of racial tension, crime, rape, poverty and homelessness.
