Art teaching speaks to a new generation of art teachers in a changing society and fresh art world. Comprehensive and up to date, it presents fundamental theories, principles, creative approaches, and resources for art teaching in elementary through middle school. Key sections focus on how children make art, why they make art, the unique qualities of children's art, and how artistic development can be encouraged in school and at home. Important aspects of curriculum development, integration, evaluation, art room management, and professional development are covered. A wide range of art media is included, with sample art activities, taking the reader to the heart of the classroom. This practical guide describes the realities, challenges, and joys of teaching art, discusses the art room as a zone for creativity, and illustrates how to navigate in a school setting in order to create rich art experiences for students. Many textbooks provide information, this book also provides inspiration. Future and practicing teachers are challenged to think about every aspect of art teaching and to begin formulating independent views and opinions.

Now is the time to pursue creative fulfillment. Annie O'Brien Gonzales felt a passion for art from an early age, but not until 30 years later, after raising a family and working a real job, did she get serious about painting. Along the way, she experienced the pleasures and the pitfalls of learning to paint. In these pages, she channels it all to help others discover or re-discover the joy of acrylic painting. This guide offers an engaging, streamlined approach for any beginner but especially for those who due to life detours or lack of time had previously postponed their artistic aspirations. In a fun, instantly gratifying style, Gonzales combines the forgiveness of acrylics with the approachability of expressive painting, with special emphasis on the elements of color, pattern, and texture. These lessons give you a jump start on painting with feeling. If now is your time to pursue creative fulfillment, then this is the book to ease your way. Strategies for gathering resonant ideas and inspiration, practical advice such as when to splurge and where to save on painting supplies, mixed media techniques for creating character in your paintings, inspiration from expressionist masters, including ways to use their work as a jumping off point for your own original paintings, plus 8 fabulous start to finish painting projects: landscapes, still life, figures, and abstracts.

As an artist, Deborah Sokolove has often been surprised and dismayed by the unexamined attitudes and assumptions that the church holds about how artists think and how art functions in human life by... investigating these attitudes and tying them to concrete examples sokolove hopes to demystify art to bring art down to earth where theologians pastors and ordinary christians can wrestle with its meanings participate in its processes and understand its uses in showing the commonalities and distinctions among the various ways that artists themselves approach their work sanctifying art can help the church talk about the arts in ways that artists will recognize as a member of both the church and the art world sokolove is well positioned to bridge the gap between the habits of thought that inform the discourse of the art world and those quite different ideas about art that are taken for granted by many christians when art is understood as intellectual technical and physical as well as ethereal mysterious and sacred we will see it as an integral part of our life together in christ fully human and fully divine

what is craft how is it different from fine art or design in a theory of craft howard risatti examines these issues by comparing handmade ceramics glass metalwork weaving and furniture to painting sculpture photography and machine made design from bauhaus to the memphis group he describes craft as uniquely blending function with a deeper expression of human values that transcend culture time and space craft must articulate a role for itself in contemporary society says risatti otherwise it will be absorbed by fine art or design and its singular approach to understanding the world will be lost

The first volume of this groundbreaking book critically examines how and why arts-based methods such as choir conducting workshops and dialogue improvisation can make a difference in improving professional practice. Taking a human-centred approach, it delivers an insightful account of how these approaches differ to achieve a new mode of learning—sensuous learning—that cultivates professional judgment to serve the common good simultaneously supporting personal and collective growth. The chapters present cutting-edge examples of multiple ways arts-based methods underpin learning arenas for expanding leadership and improving professional practice. The reflexivity cultivated through these learning arenas has the unique potential to improve professional practice not merely by enhancing competence but also by cultivating character and conscience, which is central in making judgments that serve the common good. These benefits are relevant to professional practitioners sharpening the skills and behaviours needed in organisations including creativity, diversity, imagination, and improvisation.

This modern classic teaches you to use the art of storytelling to persuade, motivate, and inspire in life and business. Anyone seeking to influence others must first know their own story and how to tell it properly. Whether you are proposing a risky new venture, trying to close a deal, or leading a charge against injustice, you have a story to tell. Tell it well, and you will create a shared experience with your listeners that can have profound results. This modern classic reminds us that the oldest tool of influence is also the most powerful. Simmons has drawn from over a hundred examples of effective storytelling drawn from the front lines of business and government as well as myths, fables, and parables from around the world. She illustrates how story can be used to persuade, motivate, and inspire in ways that cold facts, bullet points, and directives can't. These stories combined with practical storytelling techniques show anyone how to become a more effective communicator and achieve their goals.
