julia magruder’s poem a manifest destiny is an exploration of the tension between individuals and society as well as the power of one’s own destiny through her vivid imagery and lyrical language magruder conveys a sense of struggle and longing to find one’s place in the world. she begins by describing the individual as a lonely ship navigating through the turbulent waters of life facing the constant push and pull of society. this metaphor reflects the idea that each person is on their own journey encountering obstacles and challenges along the way. the poem then moves on to explore how our destiny is shaped by our choices. magruder suggests that while society can influence us it is ultimately up to us to choose our own path. she writes that we are all masters of our fate and must chart our own course. this idea of free will is further emphasized when she writes that we have the ability to weave dreams from pain. here magruder conveys the idea that even in difficult times we are capable of creating something beautiful from our struggles. ultimately, magruder leaves us with a sense of hope and possibility. she encourages us to embrace our manifest destiny and take control of our lives by doing so. she suggests that we can create a better future for ourselves and those around us with its inspiring message. a manifest destiny serves as a reminder that we all have the power to shape our own destinies.
