In recent years, Peru has transformed from a war torn country to a global high end culinary destination connecting chefs, state agencies, global capital, and indigenous producers. This gastronomic revolution makes powerful claims; food unites Peruvians, dissolves racial antagonisms and fuels development. Gastropolitics and the specter of race critically evaluates these claims and tracks the emergence of Peruvian gastropolitics as a biopolitical and aesthetic set of practices that reinscribe dominant racial and gendered orders through critical readings of high end menus and ethnographic analysis of culinary festivals, guinea pig production and national branding campaigns. This work explores the intersections of race, species and capital to reveal links between gastronomy and violence.
